

architecture+

Hoosick Falls Family Resource Center Commission for Economic Opportunity

Hoosick Falls, New York

The Town of Hoosick needed space to offer low-cost childcare and hold community meetings. The Commission on Economic Opportunity engaged architecture+ to design space for both needs. The building complements the neighborhood while meeting the client's needs in a fun, engaging and stimulating setting.

Childcare rooms are situated so that each occupies a corner of the building. Corner windows extend to the floor so that the toddlers can enjoy an outdoor view. The multipurpose therapy/meeting room is located to provide evening access to the kitchen and bathrooms without compromising the security of the childcare facility.